HOW TO READ A CARATS TRANSACTION CODES

A carats transaction code is four numbers in length with a fifth number, called a transaction type indicator, used to identify work which had been previously rejected/special handled. The last digit will also identify the 'from' vehicle when registration has been transferred.

Note the following exceptions when the last digit of the transaction code is something other than a zero:

Note the following exceptions when the last digit of the transaction code is something other than a zero:

1	Work had been rejected back to the applicant and was re-submitted to the Bureau for final processing.
2	Identifies the 'from' vehicle when a registration plate has been transferred.
3	Work had been rejected back to the applicant and was re-submitted to the Bureau for final processing and also identifies the 'from' vehicle in transfer situations.
5	De-vanitization- Identifies those owners who failed to respond to two separate letters, requesting that they provide us with the configuration of their vanity plate. These tags were replaced with a regular series plate.
6	A letter was sent to a customer asking for the configuration of their vanity plate, i.e., are there any spaces or hyphens, and if so, where are they located.
9	Rear window decal – identifies those vehicles for which a rear window renewal decal was issued in lieu of a registration sticker for the license plate.
